SUCCESSION AT A GLANCE

Earliest recorded holder to present. Relationship descriptions are reproduced from saved published paths; categories are not evidence ratings.

1. John son of Walter de Bailey, landholder of Aighton, of the Bailey family | 1349 - 1361

Transfer: Obtained a moiety of the manor of Aighton from William de Shireburne in 1349; the interest was settled upon him and his male issue in 1361.

Holding: Share / one moiety / Bailey moiety of Aighton

Relationship to present holder: Not recorded

2. Richard son of John son of Walter de Bailey, Jordan de Bailey chaplain, and Ralph son of Robert de Bailey, joint grantees of a moiety of Aighton | 1361

Transfer: Sir Richard de Shireburne granted a moiety of the manor of Aighton to the named grantees.

Holding: Joint / one moiety / Joint feoffees of the Shireburne moiety

Relationship to present holder: Not recorded

3. John de Bailey, holder of a quarter part of Aighton | 1362 - 1391

Transfer: Cecily and Emma de Mitton granted lands in Aighton and Chaigley to their cousin John de Bailey. The grant is associated with the Stonyhurst and Bailey interests, but the precise extent of the manorial interest conveyed is not fully stated in the accessible evidence.

Holding: Other / Mitton grant associated with Stonyhurst and Bailey

Relationship to present holder: Not recorded

4. John de Bailey, holder of a quarter part of Aighton | 1391

Transfer: Holding evidenced at his inquisition post mortem: a quarter part of the manor of Aighton held of Nicholas Harrington, subject to a yearly rent of 60 shillings and military service. The preceding conveyance is not established.

Holding: Share / one quarter part / Aighton quarter held of the Harrington interest

Relationship to present holder: Not recorded

5. Richard Shireburne, esquire, lord of the manors of Aighton, Bailey and Chaigley | 1391 - 1441

Transfer: Succeeded to the Stonyhurst and associated Aighton interest after the death of his grandfather John de Bailey in 1391; the accessible evidence does not specify the precise legal instrument or whether all Aighton shares passed at that time.

Holding: Other / Stonyhurst-Shireburne interest in Aighton

Relationship to present holder: Not recorded

6. John Holden and the Holden family, principal family and local estate holders at Chaigley | 1468 - 1655

Transfer: The Holden family is documented as the principal family at Chaigley, whose estate was regarded as a manor. In 1655 Chaigley was sold to Richard Shireburne; the intervening legal instruments are not identified in the accessible source.

Holding: Chaigley component / Holden estate at Chaigley

Relationship to present holder: Not recorded

7. Sir Richard Shireburne, knight, of Stonyhurst, captain of the Isle of Man, sheriff of Lancashire in 1613-1614 | 1576 - 1628

Transfer: Consolidated or defended the Shireburn interest in Aighton; in 1576 he compounded with Lord Mouteagle for a 60-shilling free rent representing the continuing Harrington interest. His direct possession of the Stonyhurst-based Aighton estate is also documented in the late sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries.

Holding: principal Shireburn interest; not necessarily every medieval share / Shireburn estate at Stonyhurst

Relationship to present holder: Not recorded

8. Richard Shireburne of Stonyhurst, esquire | 1647 - 1648

Transfer: Settlement or conveyance to Henry Blundell of Preston and Richard Shireburne of Buckley, gentlemen, expressly including the manors of Aighton, Bailey and Chaigley together with other manors and lands.

Holding: Joint / Settlement grantees or feoffees of the Shireburne manors

Relationship to present holder: Not recorded

9. Richard Shireburne, esquire, lord of the manors of Aighton, Bailey and Chaigley | 1652 - 1665

Transfer: Continuing lordship evidenced by court rolls for the manors of Aighton, Bailey and Chaigley; no separate conveyance is asserted.

Holding: Shireburn court lordship

Relationship to present holder: Not recorded

10. Richard Shireburne, esquire, lord of the manors of Aighton, Bailey and Chaigley | 1655

Transfer: Purchased the Chaigley component from Thomas Brockholes of Claughton and Chaigley, according to the historical account of Chaigley.

Holding: Chaigley component / Chaigley added to the Shireburn estate

Relationship to present holder: Not recorded

11. Sir Nicholas Shireburn, 1st Baronet, 1st Baronet of Stonyhurst, lord of the Shireburn manors | 1690 - 1717

Transfer: Succeeded to the Shireburn estate and made a settlement of Aughton, Bailey and other manors on succeeding.

Holding: Shireburn consolidated estate

Relationship to present holder: Not recorded

12. Mary Shireburne, wife of Thomas Howard, eighth Duke of Norfolk, Duchess of Norfolk, daughter and heir of Sir Nicholas Shireburn | 1717 - 1754

Transfer: Inherited the Shireburn estate as the only surviving child of Sir Nicholas Shireburn after his death in 1717; the Aughton, Bailey and Chaigley manors passed with the estate.

Holding: Howard inheritance of the Shireburn estate

Relationship to present holder: Not recorded

13. Edward Weld and the Weld family, Weld heir of the Shireburn estate | 1754

Transfer: The Shireburn estate, including the Aughton, Bailey and Chaigley interests, passed through the heirs of Elizabeth Shireburn, sister of Sir Nicholas, who had married William Weld. The precise conveyance date and the exact division among Weld heirs are not established in the accessible evidence.

Holding: Other / Weld inheritance of the Shireburn estate

Relationship to present holder: Not recorded

14. William Winstanley, purchaser of the Chaigley estate or component | circa 1840

Transfer: Chaigley was sold to William Winstanley about 1840 after descending with Stonyhurst. The source concerns the Chaigley component only and does not establish a sale of the entire Aughton, Bailey and Chaigley manor.

Holding: Chaigley component / Later Chaigley component

Relationship to present holder: Not recorded

DETAILED CONVEYANCE & DESCENT

1349 - 1361

John son of Walter de Bailey, landholder of Aighton, of the Bailey family

Transfer:

Obtained a moiety of the manor of Aighton from William de Shireburne in 1349; the interest was settled upon him and his male issue in 1361.

Previous holder:

William de Shireburne

Holding arrangement:

share

Share / interest:

one moiety

Shared holding:

Bailey moiety of Aighton

Narrative / explanation:

The Victoria County History states that John son of Walter de Bailey obtained a moiety of Aighton from William de Shireburne in 1349 and that this was settled upon him and his male issue in 1361. This is a direct manorial conveyance, but it represents only a moiety rather than the whole manor.

1361

Richard son of John son of Walter de Bailey, Jordan de Bailey chaplain, and Ralph son of Robert de Bailey, joint grantees of a moiety of Aighton

Transfer:

Sir Richard de Shireburne granted a moiety of the manor of Aighton to the named grantees.

Previous holder:

Sir Richard de Shireburne

Holding arrangement:

joint

Share / interest:

one moiety

Shared holding:

Joint feoffees of the Shireburne moiety

Narrative / explanation:

A 1361 grant by Sir Richard de Shireburne placed a moiety of Aighton in the hands of Richard son of John son of Walter de Bailey, Jordan de Bailey chaplain and Ralph son of Robert de Bailey. The record does not establish the subsequent legal disposition of each grantee's interest, so no later transfer is inferred.

HOLDER 3

1362 - 1391

John de Bailey, holder of a quarter part of Aighton

Transfer:

Cecily and Emma de Mitton granted lands in Aighton and Chaigley to their cousin John de Bailey. The grant is associated with the Stonyhurst and Bailey interests, but the precise extent of the manorial interest conveyed is not fully stated in the accessible evidence.

Previous holder:

Cecily de Mitton and Emma de Mitton

Holding arrangement:

other

Shared holding:

Mitton grant associated with Stonyhurst and Bailey

Narrative / explanation:

The accessible historical material records a 1362 grant by Cecily and Emma de Mitton of lands in Aighton and Chaigley to their cousin John de Bailey. Because the surviving online summary does not specify whether the grant conveyed the whole manor, a share, or particular lands held of the manor, it is recorded as an associated land conveyance rather than as an assumed conveyance of the entire manor.

HOLDER 41391*John de Bailey, holder of a quarter part of Aighton*Transfer:

Holding evidenced at his inquisition post mortem: a quarter part of the manor of Aighton held of Nicholas Harrington, subject to a yearly rent of 60 shillings and military service. The preceding conveyance is not established.

Holding arrangement:

share

Share / interest:

one quarter part

Shared holding:

Aighton quarter held of the Harrington interest

Narrative / explanation:

The inquisition evidence establishes John de Bailey as holder of a quarter part of Aighton in 1391. It also demonstrates a superior or mesne Harrington interest, since the quarter was held of Nicholas Harrington. This should not be conflated with sole ownership of the whole manor.

HOLDER 5

1391 - 1441

Richard Shireburne, esquire, lord of the manors of Aighton, Bailey and Chaigley

Transfer:

Succeeded to the Stonyhurst and associated Aighton interest after the death of his grandfather John de Bailey in 1391; the accessible evidence does not specify the precise legal instrument or whether all Aighton shares passed at that time.

Previous holder:

John de Bailey

Holding arrangement:

other

Shared holding:

Stonyhurst-Shireburne interest in Aighton

Narrative / explanation:

The Stonyhurst descent identifies Richard Shireburne as succeeding to the estate after John de Bailey's death in 1391. The evidence securely links him to the Aighton/Stonyhurst interest, but the precise extent of the manor held by him and the legal form of the succession are not fully stated. The entry therefore avoids treating the succession as proof that he acquired every medieval share of Aighton.

HOLDER 61468 - 1655*John Holden and the Holden family, principal family and local estate holders at Chaigley*Transfer:

The Holden family is documented as the principal family at Chaigley, whose estate was regarded as a manor. In 1655 Chaigley was sold to Richard Shireburne; the intervening legal instruments are not identified in the accessible source.

Previous holder:

Earlier Chaigley holders associated with the Aighton manor complex

Holding arrangement:

sole

Share / interest:

Chaigley component

Shared holding:

Holden estate at Chaigley

Narrative / explanation:

Chaigley was originally included in Aighton, but the Holden family developed a substantial estate there which was regarded as a manor. John Holden is documented in deeds from 1468 to 1491, and another John Holden died in 1687 holding a capital messuage in Chaigley. The source specifically reports the sale of Chaigley to Richard Shireburne in 1655, but does not provide a continuous descent or identify every intervening holder.

HOLDER 71576 - 1628*Sir Richard Shireburne, knight, of Stonyhurst, captain of the Isle of Man, sheriff of Lancashire in 1613-1614

Transfer:

Consolidated or defended the Shireburn interest in Aighton; in 1576 he compounded with Lord Mouteagle for a 60-shilling free rent representing the continuing Harrington interest. His direct possession of the Stonyhurst-based Aighton estate is also documented in the late sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries.

Previous holder:

Harrington or Mouteagle superior interest in part of Aighton

Holding arrangement:

sole

Share / interest:

principal Shireburn interest; not necessarily every medieval share

Shared holding:

Shireburn estate at Stonyhurst

Narrative / explanation:

The 1576 transaction is evidence of Sir Richard Shireburne's consolidation of the Aighton interest against a surviving Harrington or Mouteagle rent. It is not described as a purchase of the entire manor, so the entry records the documented manorial interest without overstating the legal effect.

AIGHTON MANOR

Shared holding:

Settlement grantees or feoffees of the Shireburne manors

Narrative / explanation:

A Lancashire record dated 9 February 1647/8 describes a transaction from Richard Shireburne of Stonyhurst to Henry Blundell of Preston and Richard Shireburne of Buckley. The instrument expressly names the manors of Aighton, Bailey and Chaigley. The accessible catalogue description does not state whether the grantees held beneficially or as trustees, so the entry records the parties and labels the holding as joint rather than inferring a trust.

Source citation:

Transfer:

Continuing lordship evidenced by court rolls for the manors of Aighton, Bailey and Chaigley; no separate conveyance is asserted.

Holding arrangement:

sole

Shared holding:

Shireburn court lordship

Narrative / explanation:

The Shireburn court-roll book contains courts for Aighton, Bailey and Chaigley from the Commonwealth and Restoration periods. A 30 September 1652 entry describes the court leet as that of Richard Shireburne, esquire, of his manor of Aighton, Bailey and Chaigley. This is direct evidence of manorial lordship but does not identify the preceding conveyance.

1655

Richard Shireburne, esquire, lord of the manors of Aighton, Bailey and Chaigley

Previous holder:

Thomas Brockholes of Claughton and Chaigley

Holding arrangement:

Share / interest:

Chaigley component

Shared holding:

Chaigley added to the Shireburn estate

Narrative / explanation:

Chaigley was originally part of Aighton, but the Holden and Brockholes estate at Chaigley had a distinct descent. The source expressly states that Thomas Brockholes of Claughton and Chaigley sold Chaigley to Richard Shireburne in 1655. From that time the Chaigley component descended with Stonyhurst. This entry records only the Chaigley component, not a new purchase of the entire composite manor.

HOLDER 11

1690 - 1717

Sir Nicholas Shireburn, 1st Baronet, 1st Baronet of Stonyhurst, lord of the Shireburn manors

Transfer:

Succeeded to the Shireburn estate and made a settlement of Aighton, Bailey and other manors on succeeding.

Previous holder:

Richard Shireburne

Holding arrangement:

sole

Shared holding:

Shireburn consolidated estate

Narrative / explanation:

The Victoria County History states that Richard Shireburne's elder son Richard died without issue in 1690 and that the younger son Nicholas succeeded. It further records a settlement of Aighton and other manors made by Sir Nicholas on succeeding. The precise date and terms of the settlement are not available in the accessible summary, so the start date is given as 1690 rather than an exact conveyance date.

Sir Nicholas Shireburn, 1st Baronet

Holding arrangement:

Shared holding:

Howard inheritance of the Shireburn estate

Narrative / explanation:

After Sir Nicholas Shireburn died in 1717 without a surviving male heir, his only daughter Mary inherited the estate. She had married Thomas Howard, eighth Duke of Norfolk, in 1709. Sources describe the Shireburn estate, including Aighton, Bailey and Chaigley, as passing through this marriage until Mary's death in 1754. Shared holding:

Weld inheritance of the Shireburn estate

Narrative / explanation:

After Mary, Duchess of Norfolk, died in 1754, the Shireburn estate passed to the heirs of her aunt Elizabeth Shireburn, who had married William Weld of Lulworth. Edward Weld is identified in the antiquarian account as the first Weld heir to inherit the property. The evidence supports the Weld succession of the estate but does not provide a complete conveyance history for the whole composite manor.

circa 1840

William Winstanley, purchaser of the Chaigley estate or component

Transfer:

Chaigley was sold to William Winstanley about 1840 after descending with Stonyhurst. The source concerns the Chaigley component only and does not establish a sale of the entire Aighton, Bailey and Chaigley manor.

Narrative / explanation:

The historical account of Chaigley states that after its 1655 acquisition by Richard Shireburne it descended like Stonyhurst until about 1840, when it was sold to William Winstanley. Because the statement is specifically about Chaigley, it cannot safely be generalized to the entire composite manor record.
